The design of the workplace, from the level of tools to the overall organization, has a strong influence on the health and well-being of our working population. This half day conference will explore key factors in the design of work that can improve safety, health, and productivity. The talks will be practical and will include real-world case studies and will be followed by moderated panel discussions.

The design of the workplace, from the level of tools to the overall organization, has a strong influence on the health and well-being of our working population. This half day conference will explore key factors in the design of work that can improve safety, health, and productivity. The talks will be practical and will include real-world case studies and will be followed by moderated panel discussions.

FEATURED SPEAKERS
- Tom Armstrong, University of Michigan
- Jack Dennerlein, Northeastern University
- Deborah Gold, Cal/OSHA (retired)
- Carlsa Harris, UC Berkeley
- Andy Imada, AS Imada and Associates
- Dick Jackson, UCLA
- Bill Marras, Ohio State University
- Barbara Silverstein, University of Washington
- Francesco Violante, University of Bologna, Italy

FEE
- Faculty and Students: $15.00
- State/Local Government Agencies and Non-Profits: $15.00
- Others: $50.00

REGISTRATION
http://tinyurl.com/o9ce6e7
AGENDA

1:00 PM - 1:20 PM  Role of Ergonomics in Design
                    Bill Marras, PhD, CPE, Ohio State University

1:20 PM - 2:20 PM  Global to Local Activities on Workplace Design and Health
                    International: Progress in Developing Countries
                    Barbara Silverstein, PhD, University of Washington
                    National: New Initiatives on Injury Prevention
                    Tom Armstrong, PhD, University of Michigan
                    California: Extending Safe Patient Handling to Long Term Care
                    Deborah Gold, MPH, Cal/OSHA (retired)

2:20 PM - 3:00 PM  Panel Discussion and Questions
                    Moderator: Francesco Violante, MD, University of Bologna, Italy

3:00 PM  Break

3:15 PM - 4:15 PM  Workplace Environment and Health
                    The Built Environment and Health
                    Dick Jackson, MD, MPH, UCLA
                    Preventing Hand and Arm Injuries in the Workplace
                    Carisa Harris, PhD, UC Berkeley
                    Improving Safety Culture through Workplace Programs
                    Jack Dennerlein, PhD, Northeastern University

4:15 PM - 4:50 PM  Panel Discussion and Questions
                    Moderator: Andy Imada, PhD, CPE, AS Imada and Associates

4:50 PM - 5:00 PM  Closing Remarks
                    John Balmes, MD, Director, COEH

5:00 PM - 7:00 PM  Special Retirement Event to Celebrate Professor David Rempel (open to all attendees)